Finding materials in the library

Everything can be found via the UQ Library Search tool.

The screenshot displays the UQ Library Search homepage. At the top, the title "UQ Library Search" is visible. Below it is a search bar with a dropdown menu currently set to "Library". The dropdown menu lists various resource types: Library, Books, Journal articles, Video & audio, Journals, Databases, Catalogue, Past exam papers, and Course reading lists. To the right of the search bar is a blue search button with a magnifying glass icon. Below the search bar, there are links for "SEARCH HELP" and "ADVANCED SEARCH". A large banner image shows a student in a library setting, looking at a smartphone. Overlaid on the bottom left of the banner is the text "Create an account online". At the bottom of the banner, there is a row of five dots, with the last one being green, indicating the current slide in a sequence.

<http://espace.library.uq.edu.au/>

Referencing

Citing source material requires the correct use of referencing styles.

The UQ library has a number of guides and additional information to help you cite different types of material. The guide can be found under Research tools & techniques on the library home page.

Referencing software

Referencing software

Collect references from a variety of sources like research databases, online journals and web sources.

Use stored references in standardised styles (Harvard, Vancouver etc.) within Word documents. This automatically creates bibliographies and in-text citations.

Links to downloads and further information are available under Referencing software within Research tools & techniques on the library home page.

EndNote

Endnote is a reference management software that is freely available via the UQ library for staff and students.

The download is available via:

<https://web.library.uq.edu.au/research-tools-techniques/referencing/referencing-software/endnote>

Training in EndNote is available through regular library training classes. The details are available under Library services → Training on the library home page. (There are classes on endnote for thesis writing)

Research Data Management

Research Data Management covers the planning, collecting, organising, managing, storage, security, backing up, preserving, and sharing your data.

Eduroam WiFi

What is Eduroam?

Eduroam (education roaming) is the secure, world-wide roaming access service developed for the international research and education community.

Eduroam allows students, researchers and staff from participating institutions to obtain Internet connectivity across campus and when visiting other participating institutions by simply opening their laptop.

The library is a wireless hotspot along with a number of campus buildings.

To connect your computer to Eduroam see the following guide:

<https://www.its.uq.edu.au/services/wireless-network>
